

Texas Hold'em Poker – card game

Rules of the Game:

The game is played with a standard pack of 52 cards that are shuffled before each round begins. The objective is to put together a 5 card combination made up of 2 cards that the player has drawn and 5 other cards that are placed on the table face down.

- First the player has to meet the minimum bet amount in order to play, also known as ANTE. The bet limit symbol depicts the minimum and maximum Ante range.
- The game is started by hitting the DEAL button.
- The player and the dealer get 2 cards each. The player is then faced with 2 choices, either to reveal the cards on the table by clicking the FLOP button, which sets the winning ratio automatically at two times the Ante amount, or the player discards the cards he/she has and loses the round.
- After dealing out 3 common cards, the player can execute his/her bet by clicking onto the TURN button, which will set the bet amount to the level predetermined by Ante, or you can continue the game without placing a bet by clicking onto the CHECK button.
- At this point the 4th common card is dealt out onto the table, where the player can execute his/her bet by clicking onto the RIVER button, which will set the bet amount to the level predetermined by Ante, or the player can continue the game without placing a bet by clicking onto the CHECK button.
- After dealing out the 5th common card the dealer turns all cards on the table over. The better card combination wins. Same colour cards equal a draw.
